

Current and Previous Year Test Combinations for TEI Metrics

For relative TEI metrics, including the Classroom Effectiveness Index (CEI) and Academic Peer Group, each 2017-18 test has required previous year test scores. For more information on how prior year scores are used in calculations, please refer to the TEI Rulebook, which is available on MyData Portal under the Improve tab and Local Accountability category. In this document, test combinations are grouped by statistic and assessment.

Classroom Effectiveness Indices

Students must have both required previous year test scores to be eligible for inclusion in a teacher’s CEI statistic. Some current year (2017-18) tests have more than one test combination. A row in gray italics indicates a second or third test combination. This was used for students who did not have the first combination. Only one combination will be considered for a student; the first one takes precedence, followed by the next combination listed. Generally, at the high school level, the student’s grade level is not used in determining appropriate test combinations because the tests are course-based. If a test grade was not relevant, it is blank. Some previous year tests are an ACP Summary, which is a standardized summary of the student’s scores across all ACP tests in the previous year. An ACP Summary may also be standardized by content area or by a specific ACP test.

Academic Peer Group

Students must have one required previous year test score to be eligible for inclusion in a teacher's Average Peer Group statistic. Some current year (2017-18) tests have more than one test combination. A row in gray italics indicates a second or third test combination. This was used for students who did not have the first combination. Only one combination will be considered for a student; the first one takes precedence, followed by the next combination listed. Generally, at the high school level, the student's grade level is not used in determining appropriate test combinations because the tests are course-based. If a test grade was not relevant, it is blank. Some previous year tests are an ACP Summary, which is a standardized summary of the student's scores across all ACP tests in the previous year. An ACP Summary may also be standardized by content area or by a specific ACP test.
